INSTRUCTION FOR USE

Compression socks

Thank you for having chosen a Shanghai Amigo product. Our products are synonymous with comfort and personal wellness. The pleasant feeling of lightness and wellness is obtained thanks to the dynamic effect of the product's graduated compression. The compression decreases from the ankle upwards. The heel section provides for:

- The proper placement of the heel in the heel pocket thus providing for greater stability.
- Proper positioning at the maximum compression point, as well as a better fit and greater wearability and elasticity around the circumference of the ankle.

Shanghai Amigo products are not medical devices. They are particularly effective for relieving the sensations of heaviness and fatigue in the legs.

Instructions and recommendations for wearing compression socks

It is recommended to put the compression socks on as soon as you get up in the morning.

The compression socks should be protected against contact with any oils, creams or ointments applied to the legs for medical or cosmetic reasons.

Rough fingernails or rings with rough edges could potentially damage the product's fabric.

If the skin is wet, apply talcum powder to the foot in order to facilitate its insertion into the socks.

1. Turn the socks inside out, with the exception of the foot section.
It is best to turn the socks inside out to the point that the heel remains outside.
 - Use both hands to widen the foot portion and slide the foot into the socks up to the heel.
 - Turn back the inside-out portion of the socks, taking care to properly position the heel.
2. Insert the rest of the leg up to the knee, smoothing out the fabric with the palm of your hand.
Never pull directly on the top edge of the socks.
 - In the case of tights, follow the same procedure as described above until the tights arrive at the level of the knee on both legs.
3. Roll the remaining portion of the tights upward to the crotch, smoothing the fabric with your hands and checking to make sure the compression is uniform.
